(i) Organisation and functioning

In accordance with article 16, para.5, Tertiary Education in Greece is public and free. The Law 4485/2017 delineates the structure of Higher Education and the legal form of Higher Education Institutions.

Up until 2018 (Law 4009/2011 and 4485/2017), Higher Education was divided into two sectors:

a) The University Sector (A.E.I.), which comprised Universities, Polytechnic Schools, Athens School of Fine Arts, the Hellenic Open University (undergraduate and postgraduate studies by distance) and the International Hellenic University (provision of undergraduate education in a foreign language).

b) The Technological Sector (T.E.I.), which comprised the Technological Educational Institutions and the School of Pedagogical and Technological Education (ASPETE).

Pursuant to the provisions of Laws 4521/2018, 4559/2018, 4589/2018 and 4610/2019, Technological Educational Institutions merged with University Institutions. As of 2018, Higher Education comprises both the University Sector (Universities, Polytechnic Schools, Athens School of Fine Arts, the Hellenic Open University and the former T.E.I.) and the Technological Sector (the School of Pedagogical and Technological Education ASPETE). Additionally, there are State Institutions recognised as equal to the Institutions of the Higher Education University Sector conferring equivalent degrees (Higher Military Education Institutions ASEI), as well as State Institutions equal to the Institutions of the Technological Sector of Higher Education (Naval Academies AEN, etc). Finally, vocational and any other special training for a period of no more than three years are offered by the State under the supervision of all other Ministries.

(ii) Admission

Admission to Tertiary education entails the possession of a school-leaving certificate (Baccalaureat), either from a General or a Technical Lyceum. Admission quotas for all Academic Departments are set according to the designated available places (numerus clausus) as these are defined every year by the Ministry of Education and Religious Affairs. Successful admission to a School or a Department are determined by the candidate's performance at the national level entrance examinations, the candidate's choices (by order of preference) of desired Schools/Departments, and the General Admission Grade¹; Additional examinations in one or more subjects or compulsory preparatory tests are required for admission to specific Departments (e.g.

Design for entry in the School of Architecture).

From the academic year 2019-2020 onwards, student admission to the Department of Music Studies at the University of Ioannina requires passing the national entrance exams, organized according to the provisions of the article 19 of Law 4559/2018 (A' 142) as amended and applies (by Law 4589/2019 A' 13).

Student admission to the Department of Fine Arts and Art Sciences of the University of Ioannina requires special entrance examinations in accordance with the relevant Ministerial decision (F. 151/17712/A5 OGG 418/B/2017).

The teaching load for each academic year is structured in two semesters, while each academic semester includes educational activities that correspond to thirty (30) credits (ECTS).

Enrolled students in the Departments of the former Technological Education Institutions (TEI) (at the time of entry into force of the above laws) complete the study programme of the TEI Department they were originally admitted to, and receive the corresponding degree from the TEI Department.

Second Cycle Degree Programmes: It involves the attendance of a postgraduate study programme, which is completed with the awarding of a Postgraduate Diploma. The normal duration of a such a programme is at least two (2) semesters and the courses correspond to a minimum of 30 credits (ECTS) per semester.

National Quality Assurance System: The provisions of Law 3374/2005 established the assurance of quality in Higher Education and the system of transfer and accumulation of credit units, as the framework of procedures and criteria for the evaluation of academic Departments and for the certification of student studies were determined. Aiming, among other things, at enhancing student mobility and contributing to the creation of the European Higher Education Area.
